District Citizens to Outline

Question of Half-and-Half Plan Will

Plans to give the District "home rule" through representation in Congress and the electoral college, will be discussed at a meeting of local citizens to be held at the office of Roy C. Claffin, in the McLachlen Building, within a few days.

Representatives alloted according to population, as is done in the States.

Among the prominent men of the District who have allied themselves with the "home rule" movement, are John Joy Edson, Justice Stafford, of the District Supreme Court; Theodore W. Noyes, William F. Gude, James F. Oyster, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Henry W. Blair, P. T. Moran, A. Leftwich Sinciair, Albert Schultels and Roy C. Claffin.

In speaking of the matter of "home rule" for the District, Mr. Claffin said yesterday that he considers the question of national representation, a matter of vital importance to the District in both branches of Congress," he said, "and the right of District citizens to vote for President and Vice President, are rights that the local people should no longer be deprived of, When it is remembered that the number of American citizens in the District is greater than the population of at least six States of the Union, the injustice of the present situation.

Many holders of flat-rate outsides telephone contracts are expected to ally themselves with the Subscribers' Association, which was formed last Thursday night, to attempt to force the Public Utility Commission to "properly interpret the law" on the subject of telephone toll charges.

A recent opinion secured from the commission by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, held that all telesubscribers with business contracti phone subscribers with business contracts based on the flat rate of so much per year, must immediately cancel those con-tracts to comply with the law. The telephone company also holds the "flat rate" contract to be obsolete. Jesse L. Heiskell, local real estate man, who heads the Subscribers' Association declared yesterday that the "flat rate" declared yesterday that the "flat rate" contract was neither illegal nor obsolete. He said it could not be held illegal by the ruling of the commission. The commission, Mr. Heiskell said, was formed to protect the public from extortionate public utility charges and by its recent onlyion seeks to increase the cost of opinion, seeks to increase the cost of business telephone service beyond the voluntary rate fixed by the telephone ompany years ago. The contracts, Mr. Heiskell declared further, were not obsolete, because the contracts have been in force and the telephone company has rendered monthly bills based on the flat rate contract plan. There are about 100 subscribers in Washington who hold "flat rate" contracts.
